LIONS OF THE LORD

By HARRY LEON WILSON, Author of "THE SPENDERS"

Six illustrations by ROSE CECIL O'NEILL. Bound in Red Cloth, Decorative Cover, 12mo. $1.50, postpaid

"Lifting off his broad-brimmed hat to her in a gracious sweep."

IN his romance of the old West, "The Lions of the Lord," Mr. Wilson, whose "The Spenders" is one of the successes of the present year, shows an advance in strength and grasp both in art and life. It is a thrilling tale of the Mormon settlement of Salt Lake City, with all its grotesque comedy, grim tragedy, and import to American civilization. In the central character of Joel Rae the author has drawn a pathetic figure of a religious mystic, who, through a whole-souled devotion to his faith, comes by hard experiences to see that its teachings are wrong and dire in their significance, especially upon women. His love for his adopted daughter and the child's growth into fair young womanhood, when she is won by a cowboy, such as Mr. Wilson knows so well how to draw, are admirably depicted. Such dramatic scenes as that of the famous Mountain Meadows Massacre are told with great power, and Brigham Young and other Mormon leaders are hit off to the life. The author's feeling for the Western scenery affords him an opportunity for many graphic pen pictures, and he is equally strong in character and in description. For the first time in a novel is the tragic-comedy of the Mormon development adequately set forth. The book is at once a moving piece of fiction and a tremendous arraignment of one of the plague-spots in our Western civilization. Nothing fresher or more vital has been produced by a native novelist

OVER ONE THOUSAND TITLES OF CLOTH BOUND BOOKS

Every book just from the presses—FRESH, CLEAN, NEW—and a delight to the eye in finished and alluring bindings.

No old stock, and not a slow-selling book in the entire list.

Remember we issue no abridged editions; our books are complete.

TO THE TRADE:

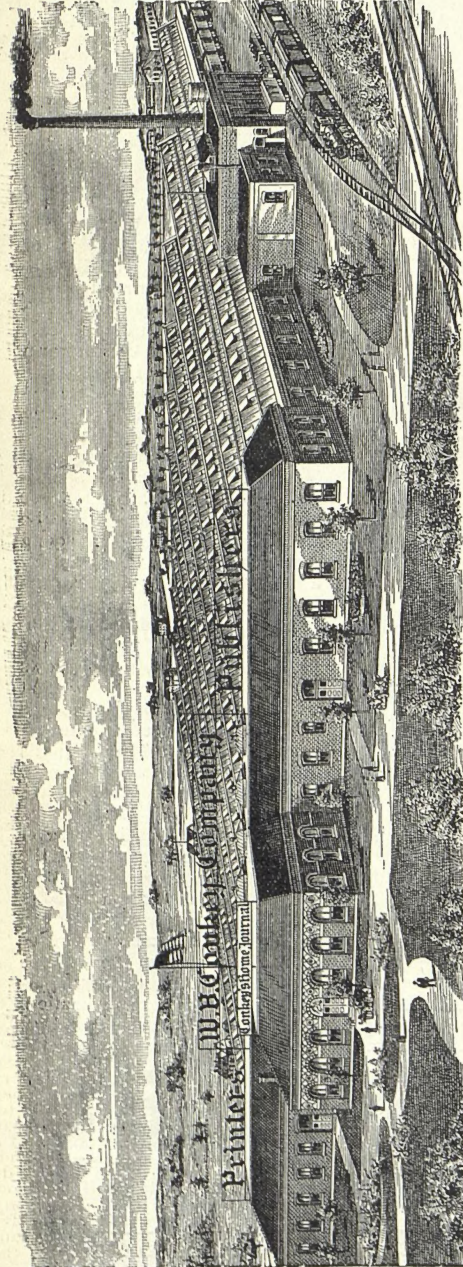

The bird's-eye view here presented of our mammoth book-making establishment gives but a very imperfect idea of the largest and best equipped concern of its kind in the world. The structure itself, covering seven acres of space, occupies but one immense floor, dispensing with elevators and other delays incident to the carrying of stock from one story to another, securing a potency of co-operative effort and a great economy in time and handling.

Our industrial facilities include the most elaborate, the most comprehensive and the most formidable factory equipment ever operated in book manufacturing, and comprises many brilliant mechanic inventions of remarkable economic utility owned and used exclusively by ourselves.

The machines that set the type and make the plates, the presses that do the printing, the appliances that fold the sheets and sew and bind the books, are all run by electricity. These unequaled requirements enable us to make better books for less money than any other publishing concern in the country. We pay the highest scale of wages and our employees (now unionized) are surrounded by the most advantageous conditions; no effort being spared that contributes to their well-being.

To this must be added the cumulative advantages of a controlling geographic position—Hammond being the most concentrated railroad center in the world, having seventeen different roads, ten great trunk lines and seven belt lines—freight rates to all sections of the country being the same from Hammond or Chicago. There is no point on the continent which we do not reach from the platform of our own works.

Our constant endeavor has been to make our publications superior to anything on the market and to sell them at prices which, while returning a remunerative profit to the dealer, still enables him to undersell all competitors.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "The Captain's Toll-Gate," a posthumous novel by Frank R. Stockton, the scene of which is laid partly in Washington, but mainly in that part of West Virginia in which the author spent the last three years of his life, with a memoir by Mrs. Stockton and a bibliography of Stockton's writings; "The Autobiography of Joseph Le Conte," the celebrated geologist, edited by William Dallam Armes; also, "The Story of a Grain of Wheat," a history of the subject from the earliest times, by William C. Edgar, editor of the Northwestern Miller.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready a volume entitled "New Conceptions in Science," by Carl Snyder, whose aim is to show to the layman how the conception of the various sciences has changed within the last few years on account of the development wrought in the sciences themselves. The volume is very fully illustrated. They have also just ready an amusing story of an unintentional voyage to Singapore, entitled "Sinful Peck," by Morgan Robertson, author of "Spun Yarn;" also, "Ethel," a new story by J. J. Bell, author of that amusing little Scottish Story, "Wee Macgregor."

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have just brought out two juveniles of unusual excellence by well known authors. One is "Defending the Bank," by Edward S. Van Zile, a clever story of several children who constitute themselves amateur detectives and were instrumental in saving a bank in Troy, N. Y., from being broken into by burglars. The other novel is called "The Mutineers," the author being Eustace L. Williams, of the Philadelphia Inquirer, and is a rattling good story of boarding-school life with baseball prominent in its pages. They have also just published "Mara," a strong piece of fiction for adults, by Mrs. G. R. Alden, the creator of the famous "Pansy" books. They will publish on the 10th inst. a new story by Harry Leon Wilson, author of "The Spenders." The new story, entitled "Lions of the Lord," deals with the Mormon settlement of Salt Lake City with all its grotesque comedy, grim tragedy and import to American civilization.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish on the 10th inst. "Round Anvil Rock," the new Kentucky story upon which Mrs. Nancy Huston Banks has been at work since the publication of "Oldfield." They will publish about the same time Miss Gwendolen Overton's new novel, "Anne Carmel," which was first announced as "The Birthright;" three volumes by W. B. Yeats, one of which will be a new edition of "The Celtic Twilight," the second "Ideas of Good and Evil," essays of more general interest than those in the previous book, and the third "Where there is Nothing," a play; also, the first volume of a learned philosophical work by Bertrand Russell, a Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, which is to be brought out under the title of "The Principles of Mathematics." Later in the month they will bring out "Thompson's Progress," by Cutcliffe Hyne, who, having finished with "Captain Kettle" now tells a spirited tale about a man who begins life as a poacher; "Mr. Keegan's Elopement," by Winston Churchill, the third of the clever stories appearing in the series of Little Novels by Favorite Authors; the first volume of an edition de luxe of the works of Matthew Arnold, uniform with the editions of Tennyson, Pater and others brought out within the last two years; also, "The Island of Formosa, Past and Present," by James W. Davidson, U. S. Consul in Formosa, who for nearly eight years has made a close study of the island, its people and products.

Captain La Barge's life embraced the entire era of active boating business on the river. He saw it all—from the time when the Creole and Canadian voyageurs cordelled their keelboats up the refractory stream, to the time when the railroad won its final victory over the steamboat. He was on the first boat that went to the far upper river, and he made the last through voyage from St. Louis to Fort Benton. He typified in his own career the meteoric rise and fall of that peculiar business. He grew up with it, prospered with it, and was ruined with and by it. He saw and shared the wonderful metamorphosis that came over the Missouri Valley in the space of four score years, and his reminiscences are a succession of living pictures taken all along the line.

To prepare an introduction to his "Book-trade bibliography in the United States in the sixteenth century" published in 1898 the author first began collecting the material out of which this book grew. It became too much for its purpose, and was made a separate book. Through his connections with publishers, librarians, bibliographers and collectors in America and Europe much very rare material was consulted, and the very scarce fac-similes and portraits were put at his disposal. The chapter on "The beginnings of book-trade bibliography" in every country is a distinct contribution to the subject. The annotations to the bibliography compiled by Mr. Wilberforce are full of rare information.

Young Mr. Wayzgoose, a bank clerk, out on his summer vacation, finds in Windsor Forest buried at the foot of a tree, a sack containing old gold coins, and small antique articles of value wrought in gold. This is the beginning of his troubles. He is not aware that thieves had hid the sack there, and that they had stolen the articles from the father of the girl he loves. He endeavors to get to Paris with his "treasure trove" and is followed by the burglars and detectives, and runs into the arms of the man who had been robbed. The complications are humorously told—the ending being very ingenious.

But his early life was passed in the South; there he was born and spent his youth; there he was living when the Civil War brought ruin to his home and his inherited estate. His reminiscences deal with phases of life in the South that have unfailing interest to all students of American history. His account of the war as he saw it has permanent value. He was in Georgia when Sherman marched across it. Professor Le Conte knew Agassiz, and writes charmingly of his associations with him.

Pennell, W: W., M.D. The Buckeye doctor: a tale for physicians and for physicians' patients. N. Y., Grafton Press, [1903.] [My.] c. 6+345 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A young medical school graduate settles down in a small town; and before he has hung out his shingle he is subjected to all sorts of petty annoyances by his neighbors, who do not like his new-fangled ideas, and who resent his correct language. The old practitioner, who is a fossil, also does his best to make the young man fail, as quite a number had done before him. But after a hard struggle, the young doctor comes out on top, and downs his enemies.

People of the whirlpool: from the experience book of A commuter's wife. N. Y., Macmillan, 1903. [Ap.] c. 7+365 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of New York City by the author of "A commuter's wife." The title is a translation of the old Indian name of "Manhattan," which means "the people of the whirlpool." This is applied to the city in its modern social aspects, which are delineated in a charmingly realistic manner.

Ray, Anna Chapin. The dominant strain; il. by Harry C. Edwards. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1903. [My.] c. 3+350 p. D. cl., $1.50.

This novel has for its hero Cotton Mather Thayer, whose father was a descendant of the Puritans, and whose mother was a Russian musician. The latter gave to him his musical temperament, and the title of the book suggests the author's main motif—the warring strains, Puritan and Slav, in her hero. A leading idea is the mistake a woman makes who attempts to reform a man after marriage. Much of the novel has a decidedly musical atmosphere, and the attitude of some portions of New York society toward musical people is well described.

The author carries us into the heart of the district immortalized by Dickens, where the Fagins, the Artful Dodgers and the Bill Sykes of to-day live. He puts before us with dramatic power the everyday life of the men and women who spend many of their days behind the bars, and the honest poor who are herded with these in tenements where the conditions are indescribable. American readers will be especially attracted by the part which a young American plays in cleaning out this London tenement district.

The paper advances a theory to the effect that, under modern conditions, the aggregate loan credit of the business community necessarily exceeds what would be called a "normal" or conservative amount; that this "undue" credit extension swells the capitalized value of industrial property by approximately its full amount, at the same time that it does not increase the industrial equipment, or the efficiency of industry taken as a whole.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 6, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

TRADE PROTECTION OF TRADE RIGHTS.

THE result of the Park case, against the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, in the Court of Appeals, the highest judicial authority of New York State, shows how complex are the questions of law and fact in such cases as that in which the book trade is involved through the Macy suit against the American Publishers' Association and the American Booksellers' Association. The court has settled the law for New York State by a decision, four to three, in favor of the right of the defendants to protect trade rights by concerted trade action, but out of the seven judges four filed opinions stating different individual views regarding the bases for their opposing conclusions.

To illustrate the principles involved, it should be kept in mind that the possible parties in such cases are the manufacturer, the wholesaler or jobber, the retailer, and the consumer, who becomes collectively the public, and that the article involved may be a general commodity, a specific commodity, or a specific commodity protected under patent or copyright laws. For instance, in the case of flour, a miller, a wholesale grocer, a retail grocer, and a buyer, may deal in flour in general, in flour sold as made by Smith & Jones, or in flour made and sold by Smith & Jones as the "Empire" trade-mark registered brand. The real questions are, how far can the manufacturers, the wholesalers, or the retailers go, in association or combination among themselves or with each other, in upholding a general price to the retail buyer, and can this go farther in the case of patented articles, trade-mark brands or copyright books than in the case of other articles?

Congress and many State legislatures have passed laws, as the Anti-trust federal law and the Donnelly law in New York, to prevent combinations in restraint of trade. Chief Justice Parker in his opinion, which "lays down the law" in the Park case, holds that a combination which "does not restrict the price or quantity of goods dealt in" is not in restraint of trade, and that what it is lawful for dealers to do individually is lawful for them to do in association or combination. Applied to proprietary articles it is held that the manufacturer may fix a "long price" on his patent medicine and decline to allow rebates or discounts directly or indirectly to or for any dealer who does not respect that price; that when any dealer is permitted to obtain the same rebate as others for the same quantity of goods on complying with the same conditions with which others comply, there is no boycott or other unlawful procedure. Judge Cullen was of opinion that while jobbers and manufacturers had the right to agree to sell to each of their number at the same price on the same terms and to sell to no one else on any better terms, it was not lawful to compel each jobber to sell to the consumer at the same price by refusing to sell goods to any one who would not comply with the requirements. Judge Martin, dissenting, took the ground that no distinction was to be made between patented and non-patented goods, and that a case of conspiracy in restraint of trade was proven. But this was not the opinion of the majority of the court, which settled the law as above stated.

Applied to the present book trade situation, the course of the American Publishers' Association is strengthened and confirmed by this final decision, which will probably be found to control and settle the Macy contention unless a new case can be made for the Federal courts. Under the American Publishers' Association plan, each publisher fixes the price of his books solely as he pleases. He declines individually to sell his copyright book to any jobber or to any retailer who does not undertake to maintain that price. He does not sell his uncopyrighted book to those who fail to maintain the price on his copyright book. Having this right, he makes it effective by association with his fellow publishers and by co-operation from the distributing trade. The consumer, i.e., the public, is not wronged, because all get the same article on the same terms. There is no discrimination—which it is the real purpose of the Anti-trust law to abolish. As a matter of fact, many of the public get the book at a lower price than before because the old ruinous system led to a higher retail price than is now made, so that Peter, the customer of the “regular” bookseller, might be robbed, by a higher price, to pay Paul, the underseller’s customer. The Macy house, as has been frequently pointed out, can at any time obtain all the books it wants by meeting the conditions under which other dealers get and sell them. There is thus no unfairness, and no court in equity is likely to restrain such fairness in competition.

The book trade is to be congratulated that, under advice of capable counsel, the American Publishers’ Association has taken no step which, so far, proves to be contrary to the law and to equity.

THE third annual convention of the American Booksellers’ Association will be held at the Gilsey House, Broadway and Twenty-ninth Street, New York, on June 8 and June 9. The delegates will assemble at nine o’clock on the morning of the 8th inst., and proceed to business promptly. In the evening of that day the third annual dinner will be given at the rooms of the Aldine Association, beginning at 6:30 sharp. Among the speakers will be Thomas Dixon, Jr., E. E. Thompson-Seton, Colonel George Harvey, Willard Palmer, and others. A large number of out-of-town members of the trade is expected, and a still larger number of the booksellers in New York City and vicinity have promised to be present to make the dinner a splendid success in point of numbers, as it promises to be in every other respect. Every bookseller in New York should make it a point of honor to be present on this occasion. He will meet a number of his brethren in the profession whom it will be an honor as well as a pleasure to shake hands with. Besides this, an opportunity will be offered to exchange views and ideas with past masters in the art of selling books, which will be both stimulating and profitable.

E. J. CLODE, for a number of years connected with Brentano’s, who is about to enter the publishing field on his own account, is convinced that not enough attention has been paid to the opinions of the men who sell books over the counter as to the best methods of presenting a book to the public and helping its sale. It is a reasonable enough argument that the man whose very existence depends upon the knowledge of how to attract buyers may also have some notions of how the publisher could help him and himself to bring his books under the notice of the public still more effectively than is being done now. To discover whether these notions have any practical value Mr. Clode is willing to offer two prizes—one a prize of fifty dollars for the best suggestion as to how to interest the public in a novel, and the other a prize of ten dollars for each suggestion that shall be adjudged available and that he may put to practical use. The trade will watch this experiment with curiosity, and we trust that all the alert men and women who are in daily touch with the book buyers, and who must be acquainted with some of the mysteries of pushing books will be represented in the contest, which will be open to all retail book clerks until July 15.

THE “PARK CASE” AND “MACY CASE.”

THE progress of the “Macy case,” i.e., of Isidor and Nathan Straus trading as R. H. Macy & Co., vs. The American Publishers’ Association, the American Booksellers’ Association, and stated individuals, has been followed in the PUBLISHERS’ WEEKLY of December 13 and December 20, 1902, the latter giving in full Colonel Olin’s memorandum for the publishers, and of January 10 and January 17, 1903, the latter giving Justice O’Gorman’s decision, a synopsis of the Macy brief, and the brief of the American Publishers’ Association in full. Reliance was had by the defendants largely on the case of Park & Sons Co. vs. The National Wholesale Druggists’ Association, which case has since been reviewed by the Court of Appeals and a final decision rendered by the highest judicial authority of New York State. The Park cases have occupied the attention of the courts for seven years; the first suit having been instituted in May, 1896, in the New York Supreme Court and a temporary injunction granted, while a suit was also brought in Pennsylvania. The decisions have been as a rule favorable to the defendants. The final decision of the Court of Appeals handed down the last of April, in favor of the defendants, came from a divided court, four judges agreeing in confirming the decision in favor of the defendants, and three favoring reversal. Chief Justice Parker and Judge Haight handed down opinions confirming the judgment, while Judge Martin filed an opinion and Judge Cullen a memorandum for reversal. The essential points of Chief Justice Parker's opinion are as follows:*

JUDGE PARKER'S OPINION ON THE PARK CASE.

It will be observed that this is not a case where the manufacturers have combined for the purpose of raising prices to the consumer of the remedies they manufacture, nor does it appear that it is the object of the wholesale dealers, who form the aggressive part of this association, to increase the price to the consumer. If the object be to raise the price to the consumer and thus increase the profits of the manufacturer and the agency by which he passes his goods on to his retail dealers, then it may well be that it is void because in restraint of trade within the principle of the Union Blue Stone Co. case and the Berlin and Jones Envelope Co. case. . . .

The object of this association, however, is not to fix prices at which the manufacturer's goods must be sold. It attempts no restraint whatever upon the manufacturer in making prices. He may lower or increase the price at his pleasure. In that respect he is precisely as free as he was before the association was formed and he became a member of it. He may name the price which the consumer shall pay for his article now as he could then, which means that he can both make the price and enforce it by contract. (Carter v. Harris, 177 Mass. 72; Fowle v. Park, 131 U. S. 88; Walsh v. Dwight, 40 App. Div. 513). . . .

Distributing agencies—wholesale dealers—by which the manufacturer's goods are passed on to the retailer, where the public may obtain them, have been taught by experience two things: First. That manufacturers have favorites to whom they will give a larger rebate than to wholesale dealers as a class. Second. That there are wholesale dealers who for the purpose of getting clients away from their competitors will give them some part of such extra rebate. To remedy this difficulty was the leading object of this association, and it was sought to be accomplished by placing all the wholesalers upon an equality so that one should have no advantage over the other in dealing with retail dealers, a result which seems altogether desirable because it is in the line of fair dealing. . . .

Before this association was formed, the complaint alleges, there was no fixed rebate, so that the manufacturer could and did allow to some a greater rebate than he did to others, and that such a course of dealing might operate to enable one wholesaler to profit greatly at the expense of the others goes without saying. These agencies for distribution between the manufacturer and the retailer, called the wholesale dealers, set about protecting themselves against unfair competition which resulted to them when a manufacturer saw fit to give some other dealer a much larger rebate than allowed to them.

After forming the association they adopted, first, what is called in the complaint the Rebate Plan. By that plan the proprietor fixes the price of his article known as the "long price" and agrees to pay expressage and cartage to any point from which it may be ordered. The result is that if the long price is one dollar the article is sold to the consumer at exactly that price in all parts of the country, which is very important to the proprietors, as they view it; and it must be borne in mind steadily that it is settled by authority that the proprietor of patent medicines has the right to fix the price at which his article shall go to the consumer, and a druggist who takes his articles for sale under an agreement that he will maintain the price is liable to respond in damages if he violates the contract. (Garst case and others.) This plan was found to be insufficient to accomplish the desired result because distributors violated their contracts to sell at the "long price."

The Detroit plan was then devised and all the proprietors were to sell their goods only to wholesale or jobbing druggists and not to the retail trade, and the committee on proprietary goods, which was composed of wholesale druggists, members of the association, agreed to furnish proprietors lists of wholesalers who could be depended upon to keep their contracts, and cut-off lists of dealers who did not keep their contracts or who bought as a mere cover for dealers who were known not to keep their contracts. Under this plan every wholesaler is at liberty to buy all the goods he chooses of the manufacturers and can secure the same rebate as any member of the association, but he has to agree to the plan and he has to keep his agreement. This the plaintiff refuses to do and under the agreement which the manufacturers have with this association they are not at liberty to give plaintiff the benefit of the rebate rate which they give members of the association so long as he insists upon it that he will not abide by the rules of the association. He can have all the goods that he wishes, provided he pays "long prices" for them, but he cannot buy goods of the manufacturers who belong to this association at any less than the "long price"; in other words, he cannot get the benefit of the rebate unless he will agree to come in and be bound by the rules of the association.

Wholesalers of whom complaint is made are not therefore attempting to prevent plaintiff from enjoying all the opportunities for profitable trade which they enjoy, for they have invited him to become a member, indeed have urged him to do so, and assured him in common with them of every advantage which they possess; but they do attempt to prevent him or any other dealer from making uncertain in its rewards, if not wholly unprofitable, the business of distributing proprietary articles among retail dealers. . . .

. . . The question is whether defendants in taking such action as they did to prevent plaintiff from getting the business they wanted are violating any rule of law. The wholesale dealers had the right to contract to secure such amount of rebate from the manufacturers as would reasonably compensate them for their services in distribution, together with the money invested. It is not claimed that the rate of compensation agreed upon was unfair, and if there could be such complaint it is difficult to see who could make it except the manufacturers themselves, and they do not. It was clearly legal for any one of the wholesale dealers to sign the agreement and to bind himself to sell at such prices as the manufacturer of the article should see fit to name as the selling price; the right to fix the price belonging to the manufacturer it was proper for the wholesaler to agree to recognize that right and govern himself accordingly. He had the right to insist that in consideration of his performing these conditions in accordance with the wishes of the manufacturer the latter should not give to other dealers the rebate provided for members of the association unless such dealer should agree to be bound by the same conditions the members of the association took upon themselves; and he had a right to agree that in order to secure the due carrying out of the agreement according to the spirit thereof he would furnish to the manufacturer such evidence as he might secure from time to time tending to show that members of the association were directly or indirectly violating its rules, and that which he could do alone, he and they could do as members of the association, provided, of course, their getting together did not operate against the rights of the general public, but as against other selling agents like themselves, no other public interest being affected, there could be no doubt of their right to agree with each other to do what any of them could do alone so long as the notice was proper. The members of the association not only had the right to inform the manufacturers about those members within it and the dealers without it who were violating the plans agreed upon, but they also had the right to take such legitimate and honorable means as were within reach to ascertain what persons were violating the rules, and to give notice of it to all of the members of the association. But that course operated, says the plaintiff, in effect to deprive me of the opportunity of buying goods on terms as favorable as the defendant wholesale dealers bought them. True, but it may be answered that you could buy them on the same terms as the members of the association, which terms contain conditions governing the sale and the conduct of the members. Instead you prefer to take the business chances to be forced outside of the association. And before the courts will help you you must show that the plans of the association or its conduct under those plans are unlawful as against you.

The position attempted to be taken at this juncture by the plaintiff is, that granting the plans which the members of the association adopted were legal, nevertheless the wholesale dealers can be proceeded against in this suit because they compelled some or all of the manufacturers against their will and inclination to refuse to sell their goods to plaintiff by threats, intimidation, blacklisting and other unlawful acts of the association. This language has a formidable sound, but subjected to the same analysis as was given to the word "threats" in the connection in which it was used in the Nat. Protective Assn. Case it will prove to be without force. There are no threats alleged in this complaint on the part of defendants to do anything except that which they have a right to do, if the views so far expressed be sound, and we said in that case, and it is proper to repeat here, that a man may threaten to do that which the law says he may do, provided that, within the rules laid down in certain cases, his motive is to help himself. If there be any other "intimidation" of manufacturers than that to be found in the agreements and written plans of this association and the steadfast purpose on the part of its members to carry them out according to their letter, it is not to be found in the complaint. The term "blacklisting" refers to the course of defendants in notifying the trade that the plaintiff is outside of the association and prefers to stay out of it rather than be bound by the rules and regulations which other members of the trade regard as fairest and best to all, and insisting that the penalties of such a course shall be meted out to him, namely, that he shall not be allowed any rebate upon any of the manufacturers' goods so long as he shall retain that position. The facts alleged by them are true. The notification is a part of the plan agreed upon by all, and the plaintiff courted it rather than do business on the same basis as his competitors, who together handled about 90 per cent. of the proprietary articles sold.

The plaintiff's characterization of the acts of the defendants do not establish a cause of action against the defendants if the acts themselves do not; and clearly their acts do not, inasmuch as they are not aimed at preventing the plaintiff or any one else from participation in the trade to the same extent and on the same basis as themselves, but are intended simply to prevent plaintiff and others from enjoying the same or greater rebates than they get without bearing the burdens which they assume as a condition of receiving them, unless it may be said that the facts that they have agreed upon a basis of transferring the goods from the manufacturers that insures only reasonable profit and security to them as distributing agents is illegal and void. And this would seem to be impossible in view of the fact that the wholesale dealers have not secured the authority to, nor attempted to, restrict either the price, or the quantity sold, of the goods dealt in. One of these elements has always been present in the cases of the past in this State, in which it has been held that there existed a combination in restraint of trade, which was against public policy and void.

It will be seen therefore that this is a controversy between opponents in business, neither side trying to help the public. Nor will the public be the gainer by the success of either. The motive behind the action of each party is self-help. It is the usual motive that inspires men to endure great hardships and take enormous risks that fortune may come. In the struggle which acquisitiveness prompts but little consideration is given to those who may be affected adversely. Am I within my legal rights? is as near to the equitable view as competitors in business usually come. When one party finds himself overmatched by the strength of the position of the other he looks about for aid. And quite often he turns to the courts, even when he has no merit of his own, and makes himself for the time being the pretended champion of the public welfare in the hope that the courts may be deceived into an adjudication that will prove helpful to him. Now, while the courts will not hesitate to enforce the law intended for such protection of the public because the party invoking the protection is unworthy, or seeks the adjudication for selfish reasons only, they will be careful not to allow the process of the courts to be made use of, under a false cry that the interests of the public are menaced, to strengthen the strategic position of one competitor in business as against another. The judgment should be affirmed, with costs.

The Macy case has now been argued before the Appellate Division, First Department, of the Supreme Court of New York, on two motions, one appealing from Justice Leventritt's denial of a preliminary injunction, and one from Justice O'Gorman's decision sustaining the demurrer of the defendants. Elaborate briefs have been submitted in each case by Edmond E. Wise of Spiegelberg & Wise, attorneys for the appellants, with John G. Carlisle as special counsel, by Colonel Stephen H. Olin of Rives & Olin, for the American Publishers' Association and individual publishers, and by Thaddeus D. Kenneson, of Kenneson, Crain, Emley & Rubino, representing individual booksellers, respondents. The briefs for the respondents are practically a restating or summary of the original briefs. In view, however, of the reference of Justice Leventritt to the case of Brown vs. Jacobs Pharmacy Co., in the Georgia Supreme Court, it is claimed that this decision "is not in point because there the court was applying a different system of law to a fundamentally different state of facts," the Georgia case being a suit of one local dealer against another.

The points of the appellants' briefs are identical in both the appeals:

I. The complaint sets forth contracts, agreements, or combinations whereby competition in this State in the supply and price of an article or commodity of common use is or may be restrained or prevented, and whereby the free pursuit in this State of the lawful business of selling books at retail is, or may be restricted or prevented to the injury of the plaintiffs.

II. Park vs. National Druggists' Association, 54 App. Div., 223, is not controlling: (1) Because there is a substantial difference in the facts. (2) Because it was decided without considering the present Anti-Trust Law (the so-called Donnelly Act), which was not called to the attention of the Court; and (3) Because, in so far as it can be deemed to lay down a general rule of law it is contrary to the common law as expounded by the Court of Appeals and the highest courts of other States.

III. The complaint is not demurrable because it discloses a cause of action in conspiracy to compel plaintiffs to join certain combinations or associations, and seeking to effect such purpose by coercion, threat, and intimidation.

IV. The complaint sets forth in great detail a conspiracy entered into between the defendants to injure plaintiffs and their business, and that in the course thereof they circulated false and malicious misrepresentations and published threats of injury to anyone dealing with plaintiffs, and spied upon plaintiffs and bribed their employees.

V. The plaintiffs have set forth numerous acts constituting a combination or conspiracy to injure them in their business and have asked money damages as a portion of their relief. The facts being admitted, even if they should not be entitled to the equitable relief asked for, a cause of action being stated at law, the demurrer will not lie.

VI. The defendants' claim, that because some of the books they sell are copyrighted, and that therefore they have a monopoly, and are at liberty to make any contracts, combinations, or agreements concerning the same, even though it be against the Anti-Trust Laws of any State, has no support in law.

VII. The equities are all with the plaintiffs.

It may be added, that except for differentiation between this and the Park case, the positions taken under Point II. and some other points, seem to be swept away by the final decision of the Court of Appeals in the Park case.

THE AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY'S WORK.

ACCORDING to the eighty-seventh annual report of the American Bible Society, issued May 30, the total issues of the society at home and abroad amounted to 1,993,558. This is an increase of 269,767 over those of last year, and is the largest annual issue in the history of the society. Of these, 734,649 were distributed in the United States, counting Puerto Rico and Hawaii, but omitting the Philippine Islands. This means an increase of 47,894 in the domestic field. The issues in foreign lands amounted to 1,258,909, or 221,873 increase over the previous year. Of these issues 993,454 were from the Bible House in New York, and 1,000,104 from the society's agencies abroad, being printed on mission presses in China, Japan, Siam, Syria and Turkey. The total issues of the society in eighty-seven years amounted to 72,670,783 copies.

THE POSTAL PROGRESS LEAGUE.

JAMES L. COWLES, the secretary of the Postal Progress League, on May 22, met a dozen or twenty gentlemen interested in postal reform to explain the objects of the association which he represented, and to form a New York branch of the League. Dr. Charles B. Spahr, of The Outlook, acted as chairman, and said that it was proposed, after constant agitation, to present measures to the next Congress to provide for an extension of the parcels post and other postal reforms and improvements. The proposed plan of postal advancement he stated as follows:

- All mail matter paying postage to be consolidated into three classes:
- Quick dispatch and special care shall be insured to first-class matter by the payment of 2 cents per ounce. One cent per card shall include all sealed matter and post cards.
- Second-class matter, including periodicals and newspapers at the present rate of 1 cent a pound, shall be characterized simply by a reasonable method of sacking and routing or other make-up of the matter for transportation.
- Third-class matter shall include all other paying matter marked "parcels post," with a weight limit of not more than eleven pounds, with rates on parcels up to half a pound, of 1 cent, and on larger parcels up to five pounds, a nickel, and on parcels between five and eleven pounds, a dime.

SIX BEST-SELLING BOOKS, APRIL-MAY.

ACCORDING to The Bookman, the six books that have sold best in the order of demand between April and May are as follows:

	POINTS.
1 Lady Rose's Daughter. Ward. Harper's	244
2 Lovey Mary. Hegan. Century Co.	215

6 Darrel of the Blessed Isles. Bacheller. Lothrop	37

COMMUNICATIONS.

LOOSE TITLES AND INDEXES IN PERIODICALS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: It is an almost universal practice among publishers of popular magazines of large circulation to issue a title-page and index for volumes as a separate signature to be sent only to those who specially request it. The supposition is that so few out of the total subscription list of many thousands desire to bind and preserve their copies, it is unfair to the majority to use space that would otherwise be given to text for the title and index once or twice a year, and it is an extra expense to the publisher in paper and mailing to include the title and index as an extra signature once or twice a year in the entire edition.

Libraries throughout the country and individuals who desire to bind their files are much annoyed by the present system, and it seems to me that the system is an injury to the publisher himself, as it argues that his magazine is not intended for preservation. I beg, therefore, that you will print the following plan by which the publisher of a popular magazine may save from $200 to $400 a year clear by issuing the title and index as a part of the final number of each volume. The only argument that I have been able to get against this plan is that it deprives subscribers who do not care for the title and index of four pages of text twice a year, to which they are entitled. I have asked over two hundred different magazine readers during the past year this question, and not one of them realized that it was the custom of popular magazines to give their readers the same number of pages of text each month. Not one of them would feel aggrieved at finding once in a while four pages of title and index, nor realize that these were in place of text rather than extra. So I think this argument of publishers has little weight.

The American Library Association a year ago sent circulars to all publishers asking that they include title and index; but no response to the request has been received nor any change been made in the method of publication. It is evident, therefore, that the extra expense supposed to attach to the issue of the title and index with the whole edition of the magazine prevents any change of the present policy.

Plan: Issue the title and index, condensed into four pages, (as Harper's Monthly now condenses its index,) as a part of the last number of each volume, (or if not possible to get it ready in time, as a part of the next issue,) this four-page title and index to be substituted in place of four pages of text.

Result. (1) The index being in place of text, no extra weight in the number would be caused, therefore no increase in second-class postage.

(2) The expense of setting up and printing the title and index as now done would be saved and something gained, as the cost of composition of the title at least would be less than that of a page of text in place of which the title is issued.

(3) A distinct saving would be made, as the cost of compiling the title and index at the office would be less than the cost of four pages of paid-for author's manuscript, the place of which this title and index would occupy.

(4) If in an edition of 150,000 copies it is necessary to have on hand 5000 indexes and title-pages, (and I understand from one of the large magazines that this is the proportion printed,) there is the cost on these 5000 separates of printing, paper, and also the cost of mailing these, which must be done under stamps and not by the pound rates. Then there is the cost of envelopes, of addressing, of picking out the indexes asked for, and perhaps in many cases of a letter of acknowledgment of requests received for title and index.

This may be summed up as follows:

Under present method—

Cost of paper, composition and printing 5000 title-pages and indexes...say	$25.00
Least cost of postage if only 4000 separate requests are received.....	40.00
Cost of envelopes, addressing, and clerks' time on 4000.....say	10.00
Saving by using in place of 4 pages authors' ms....	$50 to 100.00

Total saving per volume (6 mo.)...$175.00

Total per year (two volumes)...$350.00

Would this method of issuing title and index in the number inconvenience or disappoint any readers? My experience would be not in the least. Would it not please the four thousand who now have to request titles and indexes? Would it not be a large saving to the publishers? Would it not tend to increase the number of permanent subscribers and make the publication of more permanent value?

In the event of a fire or other destruction, or the exhaustion of the stock of titles and indexes under the present arrangement, would not there be entailed an expense also in telling people who requested these that they were not available. This expense has not been estimated in above table.

Former Secretary A. L. A.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

NO COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENT IN "PROFESSOR AT THE BREAKFAST TABLE."

THE United States Supreme Court on June 1 decided the two cases brought by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. against Houghton & Dutton, R. H. White et al., involving the charge of infringement of copyright in the publication of Oliver Wendell Holmes's "The Professor at the Breakfast Table" and of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's "The Minister's Wooing."

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. were the assignees of the authors in both cases. Both works were originally published serially without being copyrighted, and for this reason the court held that no relief could be granted.

It appeared from the record that each issue of the Atlantic Monthly, in which "The Professor at the Breakfast Table" first appeared, in 1859, was copyrighted at the time and that notice afterwards was given of the entry of the book for copyright by Dr. Holmes. The court did not, however, accept either of these notices as sufficient, and added: "With the utmost desire to give a construction to the statute most liberal to the author, we find it impossible to say that the entry of a book under one title by the publishers can validate the entry of another book by a different title by another person."

An interesting feature in connection with the case was that a son of Dr. Holmes was one of the justices who passed upon the case involving the copyright of his father's works. Justice Holmes, however, declared that he had no pecuniary interest in the case.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE SUBSCRIPTION BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE SUBSCRIPTION BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF NEW YORK gave their annual dinner on Tuesday evening, May 26, at the Arena, New York City. Forty members were present, who under the direction of the president, Charles T. Dillingham, and a very efficient entertainment committee had a most enjoyable time. At the close of the dinner a business meeting was held, and the association was reorganized as the Subscription Booksellers' Association of the United States. The following officers were elected: President, C. S. Olcott, of Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; vice-presidents, Joseph F. Taylor, of J. F. Taylor & Co., and George V. Blackburne, of The George V. Blackburne Co.; secretary, J. W. Crowley, of D. Appleton & Co., and treasurer, E. G. Carter, of The Crosscup & Sterling Co. The officers constitute an executive committee and have charge of the affairs of the association.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MISS SARAH ELVIRA PARSONS, for twenty years a member of the bibliographic staff of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, died after a short illness, on the morning of June 4 at her home, 428 St. Nicholas Avenue, New York City. Miss Parsons, the daughter of the late Colonel L. S. Parsons and E. Squire Parsons, was born in Branford, Conn., about sixty years ago, and after passing through school, qualified as a teacher. She taught school in her native town, at Silver Cliff, Colo., and at Sing Sing, N. Y. In March, 1883, she took a position in this office. From the first she assisted in preparing the monthly lists, the indexes to THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY and Literary News, and the lists of publishers and directories of publishers in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, the "Annual American Catalogue," and in the five-yearly issues of "The American Catalogue." For some years the monthly lists, and, more recently, "The Publishers' Weekly Reference List of New Publications," as well as the "Annual American Catalogue, Cumulated," since 1900, were under her immediate direction. For all of this work, involving infinite detail, close application and conscientious handling our colleague was peculiarly well fitted by nature and temperament. Faithful and untiring to the end, her mind was steadfastly upon her work, and no title or detail seemed so insignificant that in case of a doubt it did not obtain at her hands as painstaking and careful verification as those of known greater importance. With all these qualifications, Miss Parsons was by no means a pedant or martinet, but a woman of a warm sympathetic nature, ready to "mother" the young people about her, and to extend a helping hand to all in need of sympathy or more material help.

CHARLES H. HUNTER, who from 1876 to 1882 acted as secretary of the Stationers' Board of Trade, died on May 27, at his apartments in The Alpine, in West Thirty-third Street, New York. Mr. Hunter, since his connection with the Stationers' Board of Trade, had been employed as confidential clerk at the wholesale dry goods commission house of Hoeninghaus & Curtiss.

PAUL BLOUET, ("Max O'Rell,") the author, died in Paris, May 24. M. Blouet was born in Brittany, March 2, 1848, and received his education in Paris. When the Franco-Prussian War broke out he was an officer in the cavalry division, being taken prisoner at Sedan. Being severely wounded in the Commune riots and afterward pensioned, he went to England in 1872 as a London correspondent for French newspapers. From 1876 to 1884 he was master at St. Paul's School. Max O'Rell was more widely known by his writings and lectures. "John Bull and His Island" appeared in 1883, "Jonathan and His Continent" in 1889, and "A Frenchman in America" in 1891. Other works included "John Bull and Company," "Jacques Bonhomme," "Women and Artist," "Her Royal Highness, Woman," and "Between Ourselves." All of his works, which were first published in French, have been translated into English by his wife. Seven seasons of his lecture tours were spent in America, and he visited also Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand and South Africa.

DR. JOHN HENRY WILBURN STUCKENBERG, the well-known Lutheran clergyman and author, died suddenly, on May 30, at Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Stuckenberg was born at Bramsche, Hanover, Germany, January 6, 1835, and when very young came to this country with his parents and settled in the West. He was a graduate of Wittenberg (O.) College, and studied divinity at Halle, Göttingen, Berlin and Tübingen. In 1860 he was ordained a Lutheran minister, and held pastoral charges in Iowa and Pennsylvania. He served in the war between the States as Chaplain of the 145th Pennsylvania Volunteers. From 1873 to 1880 he was professor of theology at Wittenberg College, and then became pastor of the American Chapel in Berlin. In 1894 he returned to this country and settled at Cambridge. Among his works are "History of the Augsburg Confession," "Christian Sociology," "The Final Science," "Introduction to the Study of Philosophy," "The Age and the Church," "Tendencies of German Thought," "The Social Problem," "Introduction to the Study of Sociology," and many much-discussed magazine articles. He published several well-known translations and edited for many years the European department and social section of The Homiletic Review.

CHARLES EDWARD HOPKINS, familiarly known in the trade as "Ned" Hopkins, died May 15 at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Hopkins was born at Constantine, Mich., February 12, 1848. His parents had gone West from Hartford, Conn. In 1857 he came East to get a thorough schooling. In 1861 he left the Brooklyn Public School No. 15 to enlist in the Brooklyn City Guard. After three months of war service he was discharged, and entered the employ of A. S. Barnes & Co. In 1867 he resigned in order to travel for McFeesters & Ennis in connection with the Powers Paper Company, of Springfield, Mass. In 1870 he became traveller for Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, whom he left in 1876 to join the forces of Liebenroth, Von Auw & Co., afterwards the Liebenroth Co., the capital stock of which, on May 15, was acquired by the Boorum & Pease Company. He resigned his position in the Liebenroth concern in 1888 to accept an interest in the importing house of George Borgfeldt & Co. After a six years' connection with that concern he resigned to retire from active service for a time. But shortly he was in harness again, and represented Fr. Bergner & Co. and Koch, Sons & Co., until 1895, when he took a position with Andrew Dougherty. Mr. Hopkins was one of the organizers and second president of the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers, and one of the charter members and first vice-president of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association. He was also a member of the Veterans of the Twenty-third Regiment N. G. S. N. Y., and of Mistletoe Lodge, F. and A. M.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HENRY JAMES intends to visit the United States next season for the first time in many years.

THE engagement of Anthony Hope Hawkins, the novelist, to Miss Elizabeth Sheldon, of New York, was formally announced on June 1, at the wedding breakfast of Miss Sheldon's sister, Miss Suzanne Sheldon, the actress, whose marriage to Henry Ainley, the young English actor, took place at Chiddingsford, Surrey, Eng.

JOHN ALEXANDER STEUART, whose novel, "The Samaritans," has just been issued by the Revells, was a bank clerk in Winnipeg during the early eighties and got a first-hand taste of frontier life. On the evening of his arrival a man was shot dead in a saloon, the murderer walking out unmolested. The bank building was one time burned by desperadoes, and the bank resumed business in a deserted Presbyterian church, leaving the safe in the ruins of the old premises with a guard of 100 policemen. Mr. Steuart used to work with a loaded revolver on his desk, but says that in the long run the unarmed man was safest. These were scarcely the conditions under which one would expect a man to become a successful journalist and writer.

CHARLES WELSH has just been elected a member of the Society of Arts of London, England, chiefly in recognition of his international services in connection with literature for the young. For many years associated, first as manager, and then as partner with Griffith, Farran & Co., the successors of John Newberry, the first publisher of children's books, (whose biography he wrote in 1882,) he was specially identified with the educational books, and the books for the entertainment and recreation of the young published by that firm, many of which he edited and compiled under the name of "Uncle Charlie." The fifty volumes of The Home and School Classics, published by D. C. Heath & Co., and the twenty volumes of The Young Folks Li- brary, both of which were under his general editorship, are among the evidences of how industriously he has continued his special work in the land of his adoption. It was the Society of Arts that was mainly instrumental in equipping him for his chosen life-work, for under their system of local examinations he studied and took prizes in the higher arithmetic, bookkeeping, and English, French and Italian language and literature after he left school when thirteen and a half years old, and while working at a blacksmith's forge.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE new Metropolitan Magazine and the New York Morning Telegraph, both of which were recently bought at a receiver's sale by Colonel George Harvey, president of Harper & Brothers, it seems were bought in for William C. Whitney. R. H. Russell has just been elected president of the Metropolitan Magazine Company, to which he will hereafter devote the greater part of his time.

A. WESSELS COMPANY, New York City, have just ready Number 3 of the third volume of the Book of Book-Plates, published quarterly. The number contains an article on "French, Belgian and Other Continental Book-plates," by Stewart Dick, and one on "The Book-plates of Leslie Brooke," by Lucien, both with illustrations. Besides these there are editorial notes and book plates by Richards Savrin, A. De Riquer, Aug. Donnay, Fernand Khnoff, D. H. Smith and others. The price of the magazine is fifty cents the number.

OPENING with an article on the "Art of the late Giovanni Costa," by Olivia Rosetti Agresti, giving an account of the great Italian artist's work, and showing what is lost to the field of modern Italian art by his death, the International Studio for June continues with a discussion of the architectural designs and exhibits of the Arts and Crafts Exhibition. This subject is fully illustrated with a profusion of half-tones, among which readers may find a number of suggestions for the arrangement and furnishing of their summer residences. It is probably little known by the public at large that already so early as the seventeenth century three-color printing was in process, the master of the art being Jacob C. LeBlon, a German, whose pioneer work in this field is equal to much of the best work done to-day. The article shows a colored reproduction of his famous "Narcissus," together with a number of black-and-whites of other famous plates by the same artist. This is followed by an article on the work of Mr. and Mrs. J. Young Hunter, by A. L. Baldry, and, further, by an illustrated monograph by M. H. Baillie Scott, on some experiments in embroidery. The number closes with the usual Studio Talk, from all over the art world. The June Studio is particularly rich in full-page color plates, of which there are five, together with one mezzotint. Beginning with an early issue the Studio will greatly enlarge its American art notes so as to give its name "international" the fullest significance possible.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

M. L. GREENHALGH, 1135 Madison Avenue, New York, has just published for The Dibdin Club a work entitled "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," which contains a historical account, by A. Growoll, of the beginnings of booktrade bibliography and bookselling since the introduction of printing and particularly in England since 1595, to which is added an annotated list of the catalogues, etc., published for the English booktrade from 1595, (when the first book-trade catalogue was printed,) till 1902, prepared by Wilberforce Eames, of the Lenox Library. This volume, together with Mr. Growoll's work, "Booktrade Bibliography in the United States in the 19th Century," covers the entire field of what may properly be classed as English booktrade bibliography from the invention of printing to the present time, and appeals to all who may in any way be interested in the history of English literature as well as to the bibliographer and bookseller. The subject matter and collateral information has been gathered by the authors from many sources not easily accessible. The volume contains portraits of Georg Willer, the founder of booktrade bibliography, Sampson Low and Joseph Whitaker, also facsimiles of the title-page of Willer's first booktrade catalogue, issued in 1564, of Maunsell's Catalogue, the first published in England in 1595, and a number of others, few of which have ever been reproduced. (18+198 p. 8°, hf. leather, $5.)

H. LE SOUDIER, 174 Boulevard Saint-Germain, Paris, has published for the tenth year his useful "Annuaire de la Librairie Française, 1903." The volume this year contains a historical sketch of the printing and publishing house of Belin Frères, established in Paris in 1779 by Auguste Belin, who published in 1787 the "Chefs-d'œuvre de la Petite Bibliothèque du Théâtre," in 15 volumes; in 1780-1821 the complete works of d'Alembert, in 5 volumes, of Diderot in 7 volumes, and of Rousseau in 8 volumes; the Bible, illustrated by Marillier, in 12 volumes, and many other works of equal importance. An engraved portrait of Henri Belin, president of the Cercle de la Librairie from 1893-1896, accompanies the sketch. Then follows a list of officers and members of the Cercle de la Librairie, etc.; a list of the booksellers of France, arranged alphabetically and geographically, with full addresses in each section; a classified list of booksellers making specialties of certain departments of literature, as agriculture, Beaux-arts, law, etc.; a list of trade journals; the laws relating to newspapers periodicals, etc., literary property; the names and addresses of the ministers of departments, ambassadors and consuls; tables of the sizes of printing and other papers, and other information useful to publishers, booksellers and printers. (12+468 p. 12°, flex. cloth, 5 francs.)

J. A. R. BOSCH, Brussels, has just brought out, with the co-operation of the Cercle belge de la librairie et de l'imprimerie, a new issue of the Belgian booktrade directory—"Annuaire de la librairie belge." This is the sixth issue of the directory and the first one published since 1895. The arrangement is alphabetical by cities, Brussels, the capital, however, having the place of honor at the head, and includes besides a list of the booktrade also lists of newdealers and stationers, engravers, lithographers, printers, typefounders, bookbinders and related trades. (195 p. 8°, 3 fr. 50 c. net.)

PER LAMM, Paris, has recently published the "Répertoire bibliographique de la librairie française pour l'année 1902," edited by D. Jordell. This work is steadily growing in usefulness as well as in comprehensiveness. (164+96 p. 8°.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE CIVIC PRESS, 86 Bible House, New York, have just issued a book entitled "Quo Vaditis—a Call to the Old Moralities," by Bouck White.

ROBERT GRIER COOKE, 307 Fifth Avenue, New York, has just brought out a new revised and enlarged edition of Albee's "Remembrances of Emerson."

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish Mrs. Craigie's new novel, "The Vineyard," when it has made its run as a serial in the Pall Mall Magazine.

LOUIS HARMAN PEET's useful little book, "Trees and Shrubs of Prospect Park," has gone into its second edition. The book may be obtained from the author at 755 Ocean Avenue, Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y.

GEORGE V. BLACKBURNE CO., 114 Fifth Avenue, New York, have just brought out "Prudence Pratt," a novel of social life in New York and its suburbs, by Mrs. Doré Lyon, a well known club-woman of New York.

THE ROBERT CLARKE COMPANY, Cincinnati, have just brought out an entirely new edition of "The Yellowstone National Park, historical and descriptive," by Captain H. M. Chittenden, U. S. A., with 32 illustrations and two full-page maps.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co., Boston, have just ready "Bubbles We Buy," by Miss Alice Jones, the daughter of Governor Alfred Gilpin Jones, of Nova Scotia, a story based upon the laws of heredity, in which the cult and dread of superstition play a great part.

ANNA KATHERINE GREEN's "The Filigree Ball," published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, will make its appearance in Germany, in a translation made by Dr. Berthold A. Baer, and in France, the very home of the mystery story, in an authorized French translation.

JOHN LANE has just ready "My Kalendar of Country Delights," by Helen Milman, ("Mrs. Caldwell Crofton,") selections from rare books on flowers and birds, with illustrations by Donald J. Maxwell; also, George Eliot's "Silas Marner," in the New Pocket Library.

W. J. RITCHIE, who has recently established himself in the publishing business at 70 Fifth Avenue, New York, has just brought out "Fort Birkett," by Edward W. Townsend, a stirring story of mountain adventure—gold finding, bandits and fighting—with two pretty love stories interwoven.

THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS will publish shortly a new edition of John Milton's poems, edited by Dr. William Aldis Wright, editor of the Cambridge Shakespeare, who will supply critical notes and a descriptive bibliography. It will be the most complete edition of Milton, including all the various readings of the text.

FRANK F. LOVELL BOOK COMPANY, 66 Park Place, New York, has just ready a new novel by Emma Merseureau Newton, author of "Boscobel," etc., entitled "The Veil of Solana," the scene of which is laid in Southern California. The book gives an insight into the early settlement of the Pacific Coast, with the customs and ceremonies introduced by the Spanish colonists.

BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY, by arrangement with James Clarke & Co., of London, will publish at a popular price the late Dr. R. F. Weymouth's "New Testament in Modern Speech," an idiomatic translation into everyday English from the text of the Resultant Greek Testament. The edition has some helpful notes, and has been edited and partly revised by E. Hampden-Cook.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will bring out in the fall a story entitled "A Checked Love Affair," by the late Paul Leicester Ford, which will be illustrated by Harrison Fisher, in color and photogravure, after the manner of Mr. Ford's "Wanted: a Chaperon." They have also in preparation a new story by Barbara Yechton, entitled "Honor," the story of a girl's life on an island in the Caribbean Sea.

A STATIONER in Brooklyn, N. Y., recently imported 3000 picture postal cards from Germany, the trade price of which was a little over $6. When they reached the Brooklyn post-office the dealer was notified that as the postal cards were rated as first-class matter he would be obliged to pay $86.16 postage due, plus a small custom charge. The dealer appealed to the Postmaster-General and is awaiting a decision.

JOHN J. CURTIS, the secretary of the Bobbs-Merrill Company, of Indianapolis, is at present on a wedding trip to Europe. Mr. Curtis was married on April 27, in Brooklyn, at the residence of Julius Hintze, the uncle of the bride, Miss Bertha Justine Loeper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Loeper, of Indianapolis. After their return Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will make their home at the Victoria Hotel, in New York City.

E. J. CLODE, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, announces for early publication "Mr. Chamberlain: His Life and Public Career," by S. H. Jeyes. The volume is a detailed record of the colonial secretary's political action from his entry into municipal life at Birmingham down to his return from South Africa a few weeks ago. Free use has been made in the narrative of extracts from various speeches, dispatches and official documents.

TENNANT & WARD, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York, have just brought out a book entitled "Photographic Lenses," a simple treatise, by Conrad Beck and Herbert Andrews, both well-known makers of lenses. Their book covers every possible interest in the choice and use of photographic lenses of all kinds for all classes of work, and is adequately illustrated with half-tones, showing comparative results obtained with different lenses.

THE HOME PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish shortly a sea story by Colonel Richard Henry Savage, entitled "The Last Traitor of Long Island," the scene of which is laid in and about Cold Spring Harbor—in olden days the haunt of marauders of every class, its anchorage offering facilities for that early whaling, trading and privateering which carried the colonial British flag, the revolutionary ensign and our Stars and Stripes around the world.

CORYELL & COMPANY, Inc., 61 Chambers Street, New York, announce that they are prepared to take bids for the whole or parts of the plant consisting of electrotype and stereotype plates formerly the property of the United States Book Company. We are informed that, while certain of the plates have been sold from time to time, the lot now offered includes the cream of the list. Bids will be received up to July 1, and the right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

THE INDUSTRIAL PUBLICATION COMPANY, 16 Thomas Street, New York, will publish at once an édition de luxe of "Shakespeare's Sonnets," with an introduction by Professor Dowden. The volume will have ornamental initial letters, title-page, and tail pieces designed specially for this work by W. B. Macdougall, and a hand-colored frontispiece portrait of the Earl of Southampton, a patron of Shakespeare and one of the founders of Virginia. The edition will be limited to 260 copies.

MRS. L. W. MURRAY, corresponding secretary of the Tioga Point Historical Society, Athens, Pa., has just brought out a book written by her under the title of "Azilum," (Asylum, Pa.,) in which she tells the story of some French refugees of 1792-93, and the asylum they planned for Marie Antoinette and themselves in the wilds of Pennsylvania, with biographies and genealogies of the Keating, d Autremont, Lefevre, Laporte and Homet families. The volume contains a number of illustrations.

MARTINUS NIJHOFF, of The Hague, has published the first three parts of a series of facsimiles of the typographic art of the Netherlands in the first half of the sixteenth century, under the title of "L'Art Typographique dans les Pays-Bas" (1500-1540.) The work is prepared by Wouter Nijhoff, and includes specimens of every branch of the typographer's art—types, illustrations engraved on wood, ornaments, title-pages, etc. There will be fifteen or twenty parts in folio, to the concluding one of which will be added critical and biographical text.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish shortly a book of travel by William E. Curtis, entitled "Denmark, Norway and Sweden," which will have over 200 half-tone illustrations. They also announce an edition of Æsop's Fables, in rhymes, for children. The most interesting of the fables have been put into verse by Professor Richardson D. White, of the St. Louis High School, who has been assisted by his sister, Margaret D. Longley, who has had eight years of practical experience in the school room. The book is intended especially for children between the ages of eight and twelve. Each fable will be charmingly illustrated by Charles L. Bull.

HARPER & BROTHERS are bringing out another edition of Henry Mills Alden's remarkable philosophical work, "God in His World," which has been one of the most widely-read books of serious import produced in America. Few of its readers, however, associate the author with the editor of Harper's Magazine, although they are one and the same. Mr. Alden has edited Harper's for about thirty-four years. It is only during the past three years that he has actually written for the magazine, but his "Study," with its scholarly dissertations on various topics of immediate interest, has become a necessary adjunct to Harper's.

DREXEL BIDDLE has brought out Alfred Henry Lewis's long-promised story, "Peggy O'Neal," with illustrations in color by Henry Hutt. Peggy O'Neal was known by Washingtonians in Andrew Jackson's day as the wife of Secretary Eaton, of the President's cabinet. The story deals with the war against her, carried on by the women of Washington, who for the reason that Peggy O'Neal was younger, handsomer and more vivacious than they, decided that their own social supremacy depended in combatting the young woman. They based their warfare on the fact that her father had been a tavern-keeper, and that the gay Peggy was altogether too frivolous of character.

WILLIAM ELEROY CURTIS'S "The Turk and His Lost Provinces," the second edition of which has just been published by Fleming H. Revell & Company, has brought to the author an appreciative letter from Mme. Tsilka, Miss Stone's companion in captivity, in which she says: "It is a wonder to me how you have gained such a perfect insight into and knowledge of Bulgarian and Macedonian affairs, especially of the nature of the Turk. You have done Macedonia the greatest service that anybody could do. I am sure that if all the true patriots of Macedonia read your book they will join me in offering you our heartiest thanks and bless you for this grand service."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish shortly "The Physiological Aspects of the Liquor Problem," edited by Dr. John S. Billings, which completes the series of four volumes that embody the results of the investigations of the Committee of Fifty for the study of the liquor problem; the second volume of their sumptuous edition of "The Essays of Montaigne;" a limited edition of 425 numbered copies of "Songs and Sonnets of Pierre de Ronsard," translated by Curtis Hidden Page; "Masterpieces of Latin Literature," in notable translations, edited by Dr. Gordon J. Laing, of the University of Chicago, a companion volume to the recently published "Masterpieces of Greek Literature;" also, in the Riverside Literature Series "Shakespeare's Tempest," edited by Professor Edward Everett Hale, jr.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just published the third volume, covering the period May, 1763, to July, 1778, of the "Biographical Sketches of the Graduates of Yale College, with annals of the college history," by Franklin Bowditch Dexter. They will publish shortly a junct to Harper's. They will bring out in the new book by Charles Battell Loomis, author of "The Four Masted Catboat," and also well known as a humorous reader. The volume will be entitled "Cheerful Americans," and will include his stories of "Americans Abroad," that were so popular in the Century, and a number of other tales, including "A Man of Putty," "The Men Who Swapped Languages," "When the Automobile Ran Down," and "Veritable Quidors." with twenty-five illustrations by Florence Scovel Shinn, Fanny Y. Corey, F. L. Fithian and F. R. Gruger.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have in preparation for the fall "Boston: the place and the People," by Mark Antony De Wolfe Howe, a work similar to Crawford's "Ave Roma Immortalis;" a biography of "The Princely Robert Morris: Patriot and Financier," by Ellis P. Oberholtzer, of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, which will have many portraits and other illustrations; a biography of Sir George Grove, author of the monumental "History of Music," and a notable personage in the world of art and letters, written by Charles Graves, one of the authors of the recently published "Wisdom While You Wait," an amusing travesty of the pamphlet advertising the Encyclopædia Britannica; also, Arthur Quiller-Couch's new novel, "Hetty Wesley," which is practically a life of Wesley, put into the form of fiction, and which is likely to prove a human document of considerable importance and remarkable of its kind.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in hand a volume by Dr. Austin Flint, entitled "Collected Essays and Articles on Physiology and Medicine." As with Dr. Holmes, almost everything of a technical nature to which Dr. Flint puts his pen is touched on from the human and not infrequently from the humorous aspect. His way of driving home some dry scientific fact or abstruse speculation by dint of commonplace and homely analogies amounts almost to genius. They announce that "The Life of Admiral Porter," which has been in hand for several years in their Great Commanders Series, will positively be published this month. The author, James Russell Soley, who had ample means for getting at the inside history of naval affairs through his connection with the Navy Department, had practically received carte blanche, as far as time is concerned, from the publishers, and his work is believed to be most exhaustive and final.

JOHN P. MORTON & Co., of Louisville, Ky., have published for The Filson Club a sumptuous volume entitled "The Battle of the Thames in which Kentuckians defeated the British, French and Indians, October 5, 1813, with a list of the officers and privates who won the victory," by Colonel Bennet H. Young. The author presents a review of the causes which led to the battle in which the famous Indian chief, Tecumseh, was slain, the preparations made for it, the scene of the conflict and the victory. Short biographical sketches are given of the principal participants in the battle, illustrated with portraits, and appended are given a sketch of Commodore Perry and the names of the Kentuckians known to have been with him in the battle of Lake Erie, also, a list of the officers and privates engaged in the battle of the Thames. Other illustrations in the book are a portrait of the author, and scenes and relics from the battle field. Dr. R. T. Durrett, the president of The Filson Club, prepared the preface for finding, bandits, and fighting—with two pretty love stories interwoven.

GINN & Co. will publish the official guide book of the National Educational Association, prepared by Edwin M. Bacon. The book will be a complete guide to modern Boston and its surroundings, including the various historic and other landmarks that give to Boston its peculiar distinction among American municipalities. Beside the metropolitan district it will also cover the various historical places and literary shrines beyond the limits of "Greater Boston," such as Lexington, Concord, Salem, Marblehead, Plymouth and Gloucester. Excursions to various other points of interest along the New England coast and to the mountain districts of New England have been carefully outlined. The book will contain numerous novel features and much useful information to the tourist, as well as matters of special interest to the members of the National Convention. For the members and visitors to the National Convention this will be a souvenir guide book, which will be furnished gratis to each member at the first meeting of the association by the sub-committee on guide book and by the publishers, Ginn & Company. A popular edition for the public at large as a standard guide to Boston will also be issued.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line, for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

✍ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

✍ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A CAPITAL BOOK FOR BOYS

Trapper "Jim"

By EDWYN SANDYS, Author of "Upland Game-Birds"

Fully illustrated. Cloth, $1.50 net. (Postage 13c.)

Every man who sees it will be trailing new game—a boy with whom to enjoy it. Every boy will be utterly absorbed from the first page to the last—except those who cannot wait another minute before doing some of the things of which the author tells.

Athletics and Out-Door Sports for Women

Each subject being separately treated by a special writer, with an introduction by LUCILLE EATON HILL, Director of Physical Training in Wellesley College.

Cloth, 12mo, with over 200 illustrations. $1.50 net. (Postage 20c.)

Seventeen articles on different forms of recreative exercise—a book for the women of leisure who make golf, equestrianism, and such sports their pastime; for students interested in basketball, rowing, tennis, etc.; and equally for the business woman who in town or country would keep up her physical health by training at home, gymnasium work, fencing, tramping, etc.

A Woman's Hardy Garden

By HELEN RUTHERFURD ELY

Third Edition, Illustrated, Cloth, $1.75 net. (Postage 13c.)

"Unusually good because it tells frankly and chattily about the author's successes and failures in developing her own garden."—Town and Country.

"Really practical . . . and a book to be welcomed with enthusiasm."—New York Tribune.

The Garden of a Commuter's Wife

RECORDED BY THE GARDENER (Barbara)

By the Author of "People of the Whirlpool." Fifth edition. Illustrated, Cloth, $1.50.

"It breathes an air of cheery companionship, of flowers, birds, all nature, and the warm affection of human friendship, wholesome, unselfish, and kindly."—Chicago Post.

By the same author

"CHARMING, WHOLESOME, UNIQUE."

People of the Whirlpool (Second Edition)

FROM THE EXPERIENCE BOOK OF A COMMUTER'S WIFE (Barbara)

Illustrated with eight full-page plates. Cloth, $1.50.

"The whole book is delicious, with its wise and kindly humor, its just perspective of the true values of things, its clever pen pictures of people and customs, and its healthy optimism for the great world in general."—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

PUBLISHERS are gradually realizing the importance of two vital facts, especially when contemplating having large editions bound.

FIRST—To have their books bound in the best possible manner.

SECOND—To save enough money thereon as will guarantee an enormous annual extra dividend.

You are certainly not averse to making money. Ask me to submit samples and estimates. You will then follow the lead of some of the best publishing houses who find it profitable to give me their work.

The Veil of Solana

BY

EMMA MERSEREAU NEWTON

Author of "Boscobel," "A Breath of Heaven," "Silent Witnesses," Etc., Etc.

1 Vol. 12mo. Attractively bound in Red Cloth, Gilt Top, $1.25

A new book by the Author of "Boscobel"; picturesque, entertaining, and original in plot and execution.

The work gives a new insight into the early settlement of the Pacific Coast, with the customs and ceremonies introduced by the Spanish colonists. It is a thrilling romance, full of exciting experiences, but with a natural tale, with no impossible incidents. The beauties of that delightful country are faithfully, as well as skilfully depicted; and the character delineation, and progress of the plot, enlists the readers' interest to the end.

FOR BOOK CLERKS

From long experience on the road, I am convinced that many book clerks—the alert men and women who are in daily touch with the book buyers—have practical opinions as to the best methods of presenting a book to the public, and helping its sale, that seldom or never reach the publisher.

I should like to call out some of these opinions and suggestions of the retail book clerks, to apply them practically, if possible, and therefore make the following offer:

First. A prize of fifty dollars to the one submitting the best suggestion as to how to interest the public in a novel.

Second. A prize of ten dollars for each other suggestion that shall be judged to be available and that I shall use.

The contest is open to retail book clerks generally, and will close July 15th.

Competent judges have consented to assist me in making the decisions.

The names of the successful competitors will be published in this journal.
